Dear Mr. Hollands,

Thank you for returning Antony Ryan's Duke of Edinburgh's Award record book.

I quite thought that Antony had written to you in April to thank you and your colleagues for all that you did for him and our other boys, but now I find that he didn't even send you his expedition log!

He tells me that he cannot find the identity card you asked for and that he is not continuing with the Duke of Edinburgh's Award scheme. For over a year he has tried to do more than he has time to do properly and now that he is in the 5th form he is going to make examinations his top priority.

It is our custom to let the boys thank our benefactors themselves and I am very sorry that this has not been done in your case.

I do thank you and all your colleagues who helped us during our time of need. Without you all we should have had to discontinue our Duke of Edinburgh's Award scheme, and now we have the added advantage of knowing the standard to which the Boys' Brigade works.

Yours sincerely,

Deputy Headmaster.
